

projects might not follow, I can state that what I have learned during the past year should make the new road somewhat smoother. To those persons closest to me, thank you for the time and understanding necessary for this endeavor. It has been an educational and enlightening experience.

John T. Willis