

The average family in Maryland is 4.5, which would show a tax, per family, of more than three hundred dollars for governmental expenses.

It is apparent, therefore, that the first duty of those in charge of the government is not only to keep expenses where they are, but, if possible, to reduce them.

Respectfully,

HUGH A. McMULLEN,
Comptroller.