

8:00 P.M.

8:05 p.m. - Steve Cordi, director of the Sales and Use Tax Division, speaks to the Korean Merchants' Association about the changes in the sales tax on food.

8:10 p.m. - Bill Turner tells the Concrete Pumpers' Association about fuel tax provisions that apply to them.

9:00 P.M.

9:12 p.m. - Jean McGreevy rings the bell at the comptroller's State Fair booth, indicating another visitor has found unclaimed money. The State Fair booth is an outreach effort to locate rightful owners of unclaimed funds.

9:25 p.m. (8:25 p.m. Central Time) - Donald Young and Elizabeth Turco are in the middle of a five-hour drive from San Antonio to Houston, Texas, during a two-week sales and use tax audit trip.

10:00 P.M.

10:05 p.m. - Linda Bungler and Dinah Kolar check into the Marriott in Trumbull, Connecticut, to begin a high revenue sales and use tax audit in the area the next day.

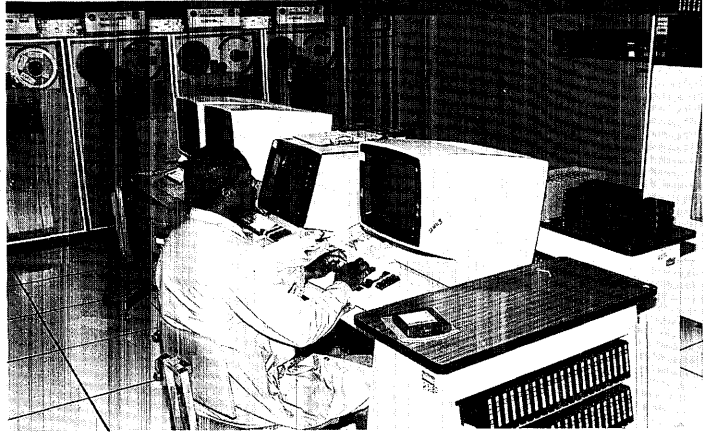

10:20 p.m. - James Waters, one of the Baltimore Data Center's computer operators, prints food stamp authorization cards for the Department of Human Resources.

11:00 P.M.

11:00 p.m. - Roland Gilmer, a computer operator in the Annapolis Data Center, prints checks totaling $3.9 million for the contractual employee payroll.

11:15 p.m. - John Lukaszczyk is called in to the Baltimore Data Center to correct a damaged mass storage cartridge that was holding up Health Department jobs.

11:30 p.m. - Gloria Liberty punches in for the third shift at the Annapolis Data Center. Both of the State Comptroller's data centers operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The comptroller's two data centers operate around the clock supporting the state's financial operation as well as the data processing needs of many other state agencies.

MIDNIGHT

12:03 a.m. (11:03 p.m. Central Time)

- Marge Barden puts away her portable personal computer after working on a sales and use tax audit file in her Indianapolis, Indiana, motel room.

1:00 A. M.

1:07 a.m. - Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Enforcement Agent John Horney sets up surveillance on an after hours club in Baltimore City. The unlicensed clubs open when licensed bars and clubs are closing and sell illegally procured liquor.

2:00 A.M.

2:00 a.m. - Teresa Anderson prints the most recent batch of motor carrier tax registration certificates during her shift at the Annapolis Data Center.

2:15 a.m. (11:15 p.m. Pacific Time) - Rosemary Droneburg and two other Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax auditors climb aboard a "red eye" flight back to Baltimore after completing a three-week audit in Oakland, California.

3:00 A. M.

3:13 a.m. - Ronnie Dadds takes her third shift lunch break, while Walter Dean heads for the canteen in the Annapolis Data Center building.

(please turn to page 76)