

pointments as associate judges of the sixth district, but Judge Rumsey declined it. Judge Jones accepted the appointment and held a seat on the trial bench until his death in 1812. Both Judge Rumsey and Judge Jones were, in 1806, seventy-one years old.