

dollar for his services per day, to be taxed in the costs by the justices; and any juror who being summoned shall fail to attend on a case of forcible entry and detainer shall be liable to attachment and fine, in the discretion of the justices to whom the summons is returned, not exceeding ten dollars.

1904, art. 51, sec. 22. 1888, art. 51, sec. 22. 1860, art. 50, sec. 18.
1837, ch. 320, sec. 13. 1838, ch. 75.

22. The grand jury shall at each term of the court visit the jail and inquire into its condition, the manner in which it is kept and the treatment of the prisoners, and report the same to the court.

Cited but not construed in Cocking v. Wade, 87 Md. 540.

Ibid. sec. 23. 1900, ch. 62, sec. 23. 1908, ch. 477.

23. Whenever the jurors for any term of court in this State have been drawn as hereinbefore provided by this article, and the business of said term has so far proceeded as that either the grand jury or the petit jury, or both the grand jury and the petit jury shall have been finally discharged, and by reason of any event or events happening before or after said final discharge, any criminal charge shall arise which the said court shall deem of sufficient importance to be investigated forthwith by the grand jury and to be tried by a petit jury, the said court may, in its discretion, require the grand jury for said term, and the petit jury for said term, or either said grand jurors or said petit jurors, to be summoned to return to said court at such time as the court may direct; and in case any one of the petit jurors shall be unable to attend, for reasons which said court may deem satisfactory, the court shall proceed to fill the vacancy thus created as though the petit jury had not been finally discharged, and as now provided by law, and thereupon said court may proceed to investigate and try said criminal charge as fully and completely as though said grand or petit jurors, or either of them, had not been finally discharged for said term; and in counties where the circuit court holds non-jury terms, the power of the court to require the return of the jurors aforesaid, and to hold a session of said adjourned jury term shall exist as though there were no such non-jury terms of said court, and the same had not intervened. And the grand jurors summoned to return to the court under this section, if there be twelve present, and concurring in any action taken by them shall have all the powers of the grand jury originally constituted for the term, to which they were drawn, and for the transaction of all business at said session of the court.