

ing to pass an examination satisfactory to said board. The boards so appointed shall be named for a specific term of service.

1908, ch. 103, sec. 36. 1910, ch. 204, sec. 36 (p. 195).

35. When the governor desires to create new organizations he shall have power in the first instance to appoint all the officers necessary to commence and complete such organizations.

1908, ch. 103, sec. 37.

36. Officers of the line of the brigade shall be elected as follows: The brigadier general by the ballots of the field officers of the brigade; colonels and lieutenant colonels by the ballots of the other field officers and the company officers by their respective regiments; majors by the ballots of the company officers of their respective regiments; captains and lieutenants of companies, the troop of cavalry, the battery of artillery and the signal corps by the ballots of the enlisted men in said respective organizations. The captain, commander and lieutenant commander of the naval brigade shall be elected by the ballots of all other line officers of the naval brigade. The division officers of the naval brigade shall be elected by the ballots of the enlisted men of their respective divisions.

1908, ch. 103, sec. 38. 1910, ch. 204, sec. 38 (p. 195).

37. The governor and commander-in-chief, at his discretion, shall issue orders for the election of the brigade commander and commanding officer, naval brigade. The commanding officer, first brigade, shall issue orders for the election of the field officers of the respective regiments and all officers of the separate organizations of the brigade. The commanding officers of the regiments and the naval brigade shall issue orders for the election of the company and divisional officers of their respective organizations. The officer ordering an election shall detail an officer to preside thereat, and shall give or cause to be given at least five days' notice to all qualified voters when and where and for what office the election is to take place. Such notice shall be served on the persons entitled to vote at such election in the same manner as warnings for duty are given. If it shall so happen that those entitled to vote at said elections shall not have received legal notice, then the officers detailed to preside at said election shall have the power to adjourn the meeting and cause such notice to be given; but the presence of a person entitled to vote at said election shall be deemed a waiver of his right to take exception to the want of legal notice to him. A majority of those entitled to vote must be present before an election can be held. The election must be by ballot, and a majority of the votes of all persons present at an election shall be necessary to a choice. The presiding officer shall at once notify the person elected in writing of his election. If a person elected at any such election shall not, within ten days after being notified of his election, signify