

held morally accountable for his acts, and be rewarded or punished therefor in this world or the world to come.

A plea in abatement alleging that one of the grand jurors who indicted the traverser did not believe in the truths of the Holy Scriptures, is bad; this article does not so require. The provision that no one should be deemed incompetent by reason of his religious belief provided he believes in the existence of God and His dispensation of rewards and punishments, means that no one is competent as a juror who does not so believe. If a grand juror is incompetent, the indictment is void. State v. Mercer, 101 Md. 537.
