

ARTICLE LX.

MANDAMUS.

1.

This article referred to in overruling a contention that mandamus was improperly directed to be issued after demurrer to the answer and without proof to support the petition; a demurrer to an answer in a mandamus case is proper. Where there is no answer whatever or an insufficient answer, the proceedings are not conducted as prescribed by this article so as to properly present the questions. Price v. Ashburn, 122 Md. 521.