

and all persons holding under tenants, and to all cases where there are two or more tenants, in which case each tenant shall be entitled to the notices and the benefit of each condition contained in the preceding sections of the subdivision of this Article.

VAGRANTS, PAUPERS, BEGGARS, VAGABONDS AND DISORDERLY PERSONS.

P. L. L. (1860), Art. 4, sec. 907. 1888. Art. 4, sec. 878. 1888, ch. 123, sec. 865.
1916, ch. 653.

865. Every person who shall demand or accept any remuneration or gratuity for forecasting or foretelling or for pretending to forecast or foretell the future of another by cards, palmreading or any other scheme, practice or device, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as hereafter provided; and in any indictment for a violation of the above provisions, it shall be sufficient to allege that the defendant forecast and foretold or pretended to forecast or foretell the future by a certain scheme, practice or device without setting forth the particular scheme, practice or device employed.

P. L. L. (1860), Art. 4, sec. 908. 1888. Art. 4, sec. 879. 1888, ch. 123, sec. 866.
1916, ch. 653.

866. Every person who has no visible means of maintenance from property or personal labor, or is not permanently supported by his or her friends or relatives and lives idle without employment shall be deemed a pauper; and every person who habitually wanders about and begs in the streets or from house to house or sits, stands or takes any position in any place and by words, gestures or other appeals, whether written or oral, solicits alms or begs from other persons shall be deemed an habitual beggar; and every person who wanders about and lodges in outhouses, marketplaces or other public buildings or places or in the open air and has no permanent place of abode or visible means of maintenance shall be deemed a vagrant; and every person who leads a dissolute or disorderly course of life, or cannot give an account of the means by which he or she procures a livelihood shall be deemed a vagabond or disorderly person; and every female person who shall solicit or procure or attempt to solicit or procure or who shall walk the streets for the purpose of soliciting or procuring any male person or persons to engage in sexual intercourse or in any other immoral practice with her or any other person for compensation or reward shall be deemed a common prostitute.

1888, ch. 284. P. L. L. (1888), Art. 4, sec. 880. 1916, ch. 653.

867. Police officers acting on the request of any person or upon their own information or belief shall, without a warrant, arrest and carry before a station house justice for examination any person charged with violating any of the provisions of the above Section 865 or 866; provided that in all cases where such arrest is made on request of any person and without warrant the officer making the arrest shall require the person request-