

1922, ch. 262, sec. 11.

251. The Commissioners may prescribe such rules and by-laws as they may think convenient and necessary for the direction, government and support of the county home and for the cleanliness, maintenance and employment of all poor persons therein, and of all vagrants, beggars, vagabonds and offenders that may be committed thereto.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 12.

252. The said overseer shall keep a fair and regular list of all poor, and of all vagrants, beggars, vagabonds and offenders committed to said county home.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 13.

253. He shall also keep regular accounts of all material which may come to his hands as overseer, and all moneys received by him for the sale of the produce of the labor of the inmates of the county home, or otherwise, and lay them before the Commissioners at their regular meetings, or oftener if required.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 14.

254. He may compel any of the said poor, beggars, vagrants, vagabonds or offenders in the county home to work, if of sufficient ability, and shall sell the produce of their labor, and apply the money arising therefrom to their maintenance and support.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 15.

255. Whenever any person may be admitted into said county home and work house, to be supported by the county, the said overseer, under the direction of said Commissioners shall collect any debts due to such person, and may enforce payment thereof, as the said person might have done.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 16.

256. When any person shall be admitted to said county home, to be supported by the county, who may have any property of any description, the overseer shall take the same into his possession, and he may, under the direction of said Commissioners pursue the same means for the recovery thereof, as the person himself could have done before his admission to said county home.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 17.

257. All debts collected or property received under the two preceding sections shall be applied to the support of the person whose they are, and if he shall leave the county home with the consent of the Commissioners any part thereof remaining unapplied shall be restored to him.

1922, ch. 262, sec. 18.

258. Upon complaint being made to the police justice for said county, and upon his being satisfied, upon hearing the party, that the complaint
