

for the location from which the vacancy occurred in order to equitably maintain a representation in the different sections of the district. The said district road committee shall serve without compensation. No obligation or expense shall be incurred by any road supervisor except upon the concurrence of the majority of said district road committee, nor unless there are funds available for said purpose, and no payment shall be made by the County Commissioners to any road supervisor until the bill or account duly itemized shall have been approved in writing by his district road committee or a majority thereof.

890. The live stock, harness and other material other than machinery and equipment now owned by the said county for road purposes, as soon as practicable after the passage of this Act, shall be sold by the Board of County Commissioners, and the proceeds thereof shall be equally divided among the road districts created by this Act according to road mileage, and so distributed; and shall be used in the said district in the purchase of necessary road machinery and equipment, and the road machinery and equipment now owned by said county shall be divided by the Board of County Commissioners among said road districts according to mileage for use in the several road districts, and the County Commissioners shall equitably apportion the use of said machinery and equipment as now owned, in order that the supervisor in each road district may use the same for the working of the roads, and in the event that any machinery or equipment so in use in any road district should become out of repair, and need repair, such repair shall be chargeable against the fund of the road district in which said machinery was operating at the time of its impairment. In the event that it be determined impracticable to so divide any of the said road machinery or equipment for use as aforesaid then the same shall be sold, and the proceeds divided among said road districts according to road mileage.

891. The Board of County Commissioners shall have power to open new roads and close old roads when they shall deem it advisable, following the provisions of the Code of Public General Laws relating thereto. The expense thereof shall be charged to the road district in which said road may be located, except when the location and opening of any new road or roads, or the closing of an old road or roads, may be in more than one district, then, the expense thereof shall be charged to the road districts into which the said new roads may run, or old roads may be closed, ratably according to the mileage of the said roads in said district or districts.

The County Commissioners shall have the right to purchase or lease gravel banks or stone quarries, or otherwise acquire desirable material for road construction and repair, and shall have the right to condemn land for such purpose or for the purpose of widening, straightening or opening roads as land is now or may hereafter be condemned by law.
