1888, ch. 456, sec. 86C.

136. The declaration in such action shall set forth sufficient grounds upon which the claim for mandamus or injunction is founded, and that plaintiff is interested therein; or, that he sustains, or may sustain, damage by the non-performance of such duty or act, or the doing of, repetition of, or continuance of any act, and that he has demanded performance, or discontinuance, and so forth, thereof, and the same has been refused or neglected.

1888, ch. 456, sec. 86D.

137. The pleadings and other proceedings in any action in which a writ of mandamus or injunction is claimed shall be the same in all respects, as nearly as may be, and costs shall be recoverable by either party as in an ordinary action at law; and the defendant may demur to so much of the plaintiff's declaration as claims such writ, and such demurrer shall raise the question whether the facts stated as the ground of such claim disclose any such legal duty as that so sought to be enforced, but shall be subject to all rules governing general demurrers at law, both as to the proceedings thereon and thereafter.

Special demurrer. See notes to sec. 134. Zimmerman v. Garfinkel, 144 Md. 397.

The demurrer provided for by this section is a special one and constitutes an exception to sec. 7. A general demurrer, whether to declaration or to a subsequent pleading, does not take the place of the special demurrer provided for by this section. Chesapeake, etc., Telephone Co. v. MacKenzie, 74 Md. 44.
