

1867, c. 276 repeals section 82 and 92 of said act and substitutes the following :

1867, c. 276.
Powers of mayor and councilmen.

82. The mayor and councilmen may pass such ordinances, not contrary to law, as they may deem beneficial to the town; they shall have power to remove all nuisances and obstructions from the streets, lanes and alleys, and from any lots adjoining thereto, and also any houses or other buildings that may become dangerous to the neighborhood on any account, and to prevent all nuisances, annoyances and disturbances in said town, and to prevent the erection of slaughter-houses within six hundred feet from the boundaries of said town, and to build a town watch-house; and they may impose such reasonable fines, forfeitures, or imprisonment in said watch-house, as to them may appear necessary, for the violation of any ordinance of said town, and they shall have power to require a license from all circuses, menageries, theatrical exhibitions and other shows and exhibitions for gain, exhibiting in said town; they shall have power to require a license from the owners and keepers of hacks, carts, wagons, drays, and every description of wheeled carriages kept for hire in said town, and also from auction stores, hawkers and pedlars.

For what licenses required.

1866, c. 47 further enacts as follows :

1866, c. 47.
Assessment of property
and tax

83. They may, from time to time, cause an assessment to be made of all the property, real and personal, in the town, by a person appointed by them, and may levy thereon a tax not exceeding in any one year, fifty cents in every hundred dollars worth of assessable property; but an appeal may be made by any person thus assessed to the mayor and councilmen, who on a hearing from evidence of the party appealing or any other person on oath touching the value of the property assessed, may abate or increase the assessment as may seem just.

Right of appeal.
