

suppress and abate all nuisances; to prevent swine, ducks and geese from going at large; to prevent any immoderate driving or riding through the streets in any carriage, stage, cart, wagon or other vehicle, or on horseback, so as to endanger the lives or limbs or property of the citizens of said village, or disturb the quiet enjoyment of the streets and thoroughfares; and to prevent the parading and indecent exhibition of any stud horse through the streets, and may impose fines not exceeding ten dollars for any offence, on any person violating said ordinances.

In force from June 12, 1861.

1867, c. 65 adds the following new section to come in after section 164 of this article:

1867, c. 65.
To change course of Middletown run.

165. The said president and commissioners shall have power to change the course of the stream known as Middletown run and straighten the same so that it shall cross the western edge of Main street in said village, between the stable on the lot now occupied by William Parker and the house upon the lot of C. W. Knight, and thence by a straight line to the Susquehanna river, and in case they shall fail to agree with the persons through whose property the said stream, when its course shall be changed, shall run, or if such owner shall be incompetent to contract, then the land necessary for said stream may be condemned as provided in section one hundred and fifty-eight of this article, and shall have full power to make culverts under the streets to convey the water into the river in any part of the village, and levy a tax on the assessable property and collect the same as other taxes are collected, or pay the expense thereof from the annual tax levy.

May condemn land.

Culverts.

Tax.

In force from February 21, 1867.

RISING SUN.

1862, c. 151 repeals sections 165 to 174 inclusive of this article and substitutes the following:

1862, c. 151, § 1.
Incorporated

166. The citizens of the village of Rising Sun are a body politic by the name of commissioners of Rising