warrant to return the inventory or inventories which shall be delivered to him by the appraisers; and on failure by the administrator or collector, attachment may issue to enforce the return. And on the attachment the court shall have power to fine the party not exceeding thirty dollars.

Ibid.

P. G. L., (1860,) art. 93, sec. 211.   1798, ch. 101, sub-ch 6, sec. 7.

211. If there be any of the persons interested in the administration within three miles of the place where the personal estate is to be appraised, it shall be the duty of the administrator or collector, and of the appraisers, to give notice to the said persons, or at least two of them, of the time and place appointed for making the appraisement.

Ibid.

Ibid sec. 212.   1798, ch. 101, sub-ch. 6, sec. 9.

212. Every collector, likewise, shall (unless superseded) return within the time and under the form aforesaid, with an affidavit of the truth annexed, an inventory of the money of the deceased which he hath collected belonging to the deceased, or received in discharge of debts due to the deceased.

Ibid. sec. 213.   1798, ch. 101, sub-ch. 6, sec. 10.

213. Whenever personal property of any kind, or assets not mentioned in any inventory already made, shall come to the possession or knowledge of an administrator or collector, an account or inventory of the same shall be returned, appraised by two respectable disinterested sworn appraisers appointed by any justice of the peace or judge of the orphans' court, within two calendar months from the time of the discovery.

Ibid sec. 214.   1798, ch. 101, sub-ch. 6, sec. 11.

214. In case an inventory be returned by a collector duly appointed, the administrator thereafter administering shall, within three months after the date of the letters, either return a new inventory in place of the collector's inventory, or an acknowledgment in writing that he has received from the collector the articles contained in the first inventory, or consent to be answerable for the same as if the said inventory had been made out