

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 10, sec. 126.

230. Any person, such as is described in the preceding section, who shall take or demand any greater toll than is therein prescribed, shall for every offence forfeit twenty dollars, to be recovered before any justice of the peace by action of debt, one-half to the use of the State and the other half to him who shall inform or sue for the same.

NAVIGATION.

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 10, sec. 127.

231. All weirs and hedges in the channel or that part of the northwest branch of the Nanticoke river which lies between the channel of the main river and the place on the northwest branch called the Walnut Landing, which in any manner interfere with or injure the navigation of the said branch or river, shall be deemed nuisances, and may be taken away or destroyed by any person.

Ibid. sec. 128.

232. All weirs and hedges in and across the northwest fork branch of the Nanticoke river, from the Chimney Landing to the northwest fork bridge, which stop up the passage of boats, vessels or scows, shall be deemed nuisances, and may be taken away or destroyed by any person.

Ibid. sec. 129.

233. Any person who shall put, place or make any weir or hedge in the channel or mouth of the northwest branch, so as in any manner to injure the navigation thereof, or in and across the northwest fork branch of said river, so as to stop the passage of boats, vessels or scows, shall forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered before a justice of the peace in the same manner as small debts are recovered, one-half to the informer or person who will sue for the same, the other half to the use of the county.

Ibid. sec. 130.

234. All weirs and hedges in the channel of the rivers Transquakin and Chicknamacomico, or either of them, which in any manner injure the navigation thereof, shall be deemed nuisances, and any person may take them out and destroy them.
