

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 11, sec. 107.

187. He may call upon any officer of the city intrusted with the receipt and expenditure of public money for a statement of his accounts as often as he or the corporation may conceive it necessary.

Ibid. sec. 108.

188. He shall see that the ordinances are duly and faithfully executed, and shall report annually to the corporation during the first five days of their session the general state of the city, with an accurate account of the money received and expended.

1872, ch. 187.

189. The register shall annually publish in two newspapers of said city, one of which shall be of opposite politics to the other, a full and particular statement of all receipts and disbursements, the salaries and per diem of all officers of the corporation, and all extra allowances that may have been made to any officer of the corporation, and the service or considerations of such extra allowances.

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 11, sec. 110.

190. The aldermen may pass all laws and ordinances necessary to preserve the health of the city; prevent and remove nuisances; to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases within the city and within three miles thereof; to establish night watches and patrols, and erect lamps; to establish new streets, lanes and alleys, with the consent of a majority of the proprietors of the lots or houses adjoining such streets, lanes or alleys; to erect and repair bridges; to pave and keep in repair all necessary drains and sewers, and to pass all necessary regulations for the preservation of the same.

Ibid. sec. 111.

191. They may pass ordinances to regulate and fix the assize of bread; to provide for the appointment and define the duties of market masters, gaugers, wood corders, hay weighers and inspectors, and to provide for the safe keeping and preservation of the standards of weights and measures, and for the regulating thereby all weights and measures used in said town.