

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

1880, ch. 129.

76. The provisions of sections 241 to 245, of article 4, of the public local laws, title "City of Baltimore," relating to "Cruelty to Animals," shall apply to Harford county as fully as if repeated in this article.

DARLINGTON—LIVE STOCK IN.

1888, ch. 109.

77. It shall not be lawful for swine, horses, cows, calves, bulls, sheep, goats or cattle to go at large in the public roads in the village of Darlington in Harford county, or on the public roads within one mile of the town hall in said village.

Ibid.

78. Any and every person owning said animals, or any of them mentioned in the preceding section, who shall permit the same or any of them to go at large on the public roads mentioned in the said section, shall be fined five dollars for each offence, to be recovered by an action of debt before any justice of the peace in Harford county, in the name of the State of Maryland, for the use of the county commissioners of said county, to be applied by them to the repairing of the public roads in the said village of Darlington, or within one mile of the town hall in said village, or recoverable by indictment in the circuit court for said county, and payable to the said county commissioners for the same purpose.

Ibid.

79. It shall be the duty of the constables of Harford county to take up, seize and impound any and all of the animals mentioned in section 77 found by him going at large on any of the public roads specified in said section, and shall immediately give notice thereof by notice set up by him at the post office in the village of Darlington and other public places in said village, and also to the owner of said animals, if he shall know the same, describing the animals so seized and impounded, and that the same will be sold at public sale for cash at the post office door in said village at the time mentioned in said notice, which shall be
