

lars for each and every such offence, and pay all damages that may be done to the said bridge.

CHESTERTOWN.

1880, ch. 192. 1888, ch. 227.

50. The corporate limits of Chestertown are extended so as to embrace all the territory within the following metes and bounds: Beginning on Chester river at the eastern bounds of the town, and the division line between the lands leased out by Washington college and the lands of Mrs. Mary R. Perkins, and running thence in a northerly direction with said division line and the easterly bounds of said college lands, to the intersection of Washington avenue with College avenue; thence westerly in a straight line to the point where the public road from Chestertown to Fairlee crosses the mill stream, the headwaters of Radcliffe creek; thence in a southerly direction to the point of intersection of the lands of Wm. S. Walker with the lands of the heirs of George B. Wescott, on the public road leading from Chestertown into Quaker Neck; and thence with the division line between said lands to Chester river; and thence easterly, by and with Chester river, to the beginning; provided, no taxes shall be levied by the commissioners of Chestertown, for corporate purposes, upon any real estate situated in the newly added portion of said town, unless the same is divided into lots of an acre or less in area, or has a dwelling-house or other building thereon, and then not exceeding one acre of such land shall be taxed in addition to the buildings; and provided, no public street or alley shall be opened by said commissioners of Chestertown, through the campus or garden belonging and contiguous to Washington college, without the authority and consent of the visitors of said college being first obtained therefor.

1880, ch. 302.

51. There shall be three commissioners for Chestertown, all of whom shall be taxpayers upon real or leasehold property in said town, and at least thirty years of age, who shall each be elected for a term of three years.

Ibid.

52. The male inhabitants of Chestertown above the age of twenty-one years, who are assessed for the purpose of State and