

1880, ch. 380.

208. Section 204 shall not apply in any case where the owner of the hog shall make it appear satisfactorily to the justice of the peace hearing the case that he had employed all reasonable means to prevent such trespass, and that it had occurred through some agency over which he could exercise no control.

Ibid.

209. Section 204 shall not apply to hogs being driven from point to point on the public roads or public grounds in said election district, when such hogs are under proper guard.

Ibid.

210. Any person who shall be found guilty before any justice of the peace of the county, of purposely turning out any hog, or of opening any gates, or in any other way aiding any hog to trespass to the extent of the violation of section 204, shall be liable to a fine of not more than five dollars, to be collected as other fines are collected under section 205, or be imprisoned in the county jail for a term not exceeding seven days; any fine collected under this section shall be paid, one-half to the informer and the other half to the public school fund of the county.

TRAPPE.

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 20, sec. 187.

211. The inhabitants of the town of Trappe, in Talbot county, are a body politic by the name and style of "The Commissioners of Trappe," and by that name may sue and be sued, make and use a corporate seal, and alter the same at pleasure, and may make and enforce all such by-laws and regulations for the government of said town, not contrary to law, as they may deem proper.

Ibid. sec. 188.

212. The bounds and limits of Trappe shall be as follows: beginning at a locust tree standing at the northeast corner of E. P. Mullikin's house-yard, and running thence to the northwest corner of C. R. Millikin's barn; thence with a straight line touching the northeast corner of Robert H. Kemp's garden till
