

the same, under such rules as he may think proper; and the said clerk may establish general rules for that purpose. If any application shall be approved, as herein provided, the clerk shall endorse the word "approved" thereon, and sign the same, with the date of such approval. If not approved the said clerk shall endorse thereon "not approved," and sign the same; and it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue the proper license to any person whose application he may so approve, and to no other, to expire on the first day of May next succeeding, except to those who make application before the first day of May, in which case the license shall run for a whole year, commencing with the first day of May; and the decision of the clerk shall be final; provided, that any one aggrieved by his decision may take an appeal to the circuit court for said county. When the clerk aforesaid shall mark said application "approved," he shall issue the proper license, and the party may sell under said license unless, on appeal, the same shall be revoked by the court aforesaid; and on appeal to the court aforesaid, the same proceedings shall be had as on appeals from justices of the peace, and the court shall award costs in its discretion; and in case said license shall be revoked, the court shall, in its discretion, award what portion of the license money paid to the clerk shall be refunded to the applicant aforesaid.

64. Said clerk shall procure and keep a suitable docket for the purpose, and shall enter therein all applications for license, and shall note the filing and the date of filing of all papers and orders therein, and shall number such applications consecutively as they are received, and carefully index the same, and such records shall be open at all times, when the office of said clerk is open, for the free inspection of any citizen who desires to examine the same. The fees of the clerk in every case of application for license shall be one dollar, when no contest is made, and two dollars in every contested case, whether granted or not, to be paid by the applicant.

Ibid.

65. It shall be unlawful for any person so licensed, to sell, give away or dispense any liquor to a minor, insane person, habitual drunkard, or to any person intoxicated; and whosoever shall
