

and any person convicted thereof shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars.

1884, ch. 270.

69. Any person of full age and of good moral character may be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors on complying with the same conditions as required from persons applying for a license to keep an inn or tavern as hereinbefore mentioned, except that the description of his place of business, and amount of stock, shall vary according to the nature thereof, both in his application and certificate of recommendations of freeholders; provided, that in case of a license being granted, it shall not authorize him to sell a less quantity than one-half gallon, or permit the same to be drunk on his premises when bought.

Ibid.

70. Any person of full age and of good moral character may be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors under what is known as the oyster or eating-house license, in quantities less than a pint, on complying with the same conditions as required from persons applying for a license to keep an inn or tavern as hereinbefore mentioned, except that the description of his house of business and stock shall vary according to the nature thereof, both in his application and certificate of recommendation of freeholders.

Ibid.

71. No manufacturer of spirituous or fermented liquors for sale shall sell in less quantities than one pint, to be taken away at one and the same time; he shall not sell, give away or dispense any liquor to be drunk on his premises to any person or at any time when an innkeeper might not lawfully do the same; he shall not sell any liquor not manufactured by himself, nor mix, compound or distill the same with his own; and any manufacturer violating any of the provisions of this section shall, upon conviction thereof, pay a fine of one hundred dollars and costs, or shall be imprisoned not less than one nor more than six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Ibid.

72. Every sale, gift or disposal of liquor shall be presumed to be made by the occupier of the premises where the same was
