

1886, ch. 27.

216. The persons or body corporate owning ground binding on the northerly or northwesterly side of the Baltimore and Fredericktown turnpike road or avenue, between the Garrison forest road and Baltimore city limits, are authorized and empowered to have and set curbstones and to pave foot-ways so that they do not exceed twelve feet in width from the northerly or northwesterly line of said turnpike line.

1878, ch. 286.

217. No public road shall be opened or altered so as to pass through any burial ground without the consent, in writing, of the owner.

SCHOOLS.

1884, ch. 93.

218. The board of school commissioners of Baltimore county are authorized to establish night schools in said county, whenever and wherever they may, in their judgment, deem it necessary.

Ibid.

219. The said night schools, wherever established, shall be held in the same school houses that are now used or shall be used for the day schools of Baltimore county, and the same by-laws and regulations governing the said day schools shall also apply to said night schools, as far as practicable.

Ibid.

220. The expense of conducting said night schools shall be defrayed in the same manner as that of the day schools of said county.

1886, ch. 223.

221. The county commissioners are authorized and required to make the levy for the support of the public schools, in two specific sums, of which one shall be apportioned and used for the current expenses of the public schools, and the other for the building of new school houses, and for no other purpose whatever.
