P. L. L., (1860,) art. 7, sec. 97.

216. The inhabitants of said city, qualified to vote for delegates to the general assembly, shall elect by ballot on the first Monday of May, in each year, at such place as shall be designated by the mayor and common council, between the hours of twelve o'clock at noon and six o'clock in the evening, one person, at least twenty-five years of age, and who has resided in said city two years previous to said election, mayor of said city; and five persons, at least twenty-one years of age, and who have resided in said city one year previous to said election, members of the common council.

Smith v. Stephan, 66 Md. 381.

Ibid. sec. 98.

217. The mayor shall give at least two weeks' notice of the election, and shall appoint three persons judges of election; and the said judges shall have power to appoint a clerk, who shall keep a record of the persons voting, and the persons voted for; and the persons having the highest number of votes for the several offices of mayor and common council shall be declared duly elected.

Ibid. sec. 99.

218. The judges and clerks of election shall notify the persons elected of their election, and the persons so elected shall severally hold their respective offices from the third Monday of May next ensuing the election, for and during one year, and until their successors shall be duly elected.
