

may be requisite for such evening schools; and students therein shall be males of not less than fourteen years of age.

1884, ch. 39.

220. The school commissioners of said county shall appoint one professor skilled in the knowledge of mining and mechanics, whose duty it shall be to give lectures in such evening schools throughout the county.

Ibid.

221. No such school shall be opened without written application to the trustees of said school, signed by thirty persons of the required age admissible thereto.

Ibid.

222. Said professor, or persons appointed by the school commissioners shall make all necessary arrangements at the different schools for lectures on mining and mechanics, on the different modes of ventilating mines and their results, and on civil engineering and map drawing.

Ibid.

223. Said professor and teachers shall be paid out of the public school fund of Allegany county such compensation for their services as the school commissioners shall fix.

Ibid.

224. Such schools shall be opened on the first Monday in November, and close on the last Friday of April.

Ibid.

225. There shall not be expended in any one year more than the sum of three thousand dollars for the maintenance of such schools; and if the county school commissioners shall not have a sufficient surplus, after paying all necessary expenses of the ordinary public schools of the said county, to meet such expenditures, the county commissioners shall levy the same as other county taxes are levied.
