

1884, ch. 13. 1888, ch. 298.

25. They shall pay the said overseer a sum not exceeding three hundred dollars per annum as a salary, and so pro rata during his continuance in office.

Ibid.

26. They shall require the overseer to give bond, with good and sufficient securities, in the penalty of five hundred dollars, payable to them, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties as such overseer.

Ibid.

27. The overseer shall keep a fair and regular list of all poor, insane, vagrants, beggars, vagabonds, and other offenders committed to the almshouse and insane asylum, and accounts of all material and other things that may come to his hands as overseer, and of all expenses and charges attending the maintenance and support of the inmates of the almshouse and insane asylum, and of all moneys received by him for the sale of the produce of their labor, and shall render the same under oath, to be administered by one of the trustees, to the trustees at their regular meetings, or oftener if required.

Ibid.

28. The said overseer may compel any of the inmates of said almshouse or insane asylum, if of sufficient ability, to work and labor, and shall account for the produce of their labor.

Ibid.

29. Any of the said trustees may, under his hand in writing, appoint what poor, sick and insane shall be received into said almshouse and insane asylum; and any justice of the peace may, under his hand in writing, in his discretion, appoint what poor, sick and insane shall be received into said almshouse and insane asylum, to be there cared for until the next meeting of the board of trustees.

Ibid.

30. The said trustees shall purchase all necessary supplies, bedding and furniture for the almshouse and insane asylum, clothing for the inmates, and stock and farming utensils for the farm.
