

disturbances; prevent all congregations of disorderly persons in public places; apprehend and fine all tramps and vagabonds; impose a tax on dogs, geese, hogs and other animals running at large in the streets, or totally prohibit the same; and may impose fines, penalties and forfeitures for the violation of ordinances, and commit all offenders to the county jail until the same be paid with costs.

1888, ch. 325.

104. They may pass such ordinances as they may deem necessary to preserve the health of the town, and remove all nuisances from or prohibit all business within the corporate limits thereof as shall in their opinion injuriously affect the sanitary condition of said town.

Ibid

105. They may, as often as they may deem advisable, cause an assessment to be made of all the real and personal property within said town, or the corporate limits thereof, by their clerk, which assessment shall not exceed the assessment of the same for county purposes, and the commissioners may levy a tax thereon not exceeding ten cents in the hundred dollars worth of assessable property.

Ibid.

106. Any person may appeal from the valuation of the assessor to the commissioners, who shall meet on the first Monday of June after any such assessment, and remain in session as long as may be necessary then, and determine such appeals; and shall give reasonable notice of any such meeting, and may increase or abate such assessment as they may deem best.

Ibid.

107. Whenever the commissioners shall levy a tax they shall cause to be made out an alphabetical list of the persons charged therein, and shall cause to be affixed thereto the respective sums to be collected from such persons, and a warrant to the bailiff to collect the same.

Ibid.

108 The bailiff shall, within ten days after the receipt of said list and warrant, render to each person an account or tax
