

directed to levy the State taxes for the year nineteen hundred, to be collected according to law, and to be apportioned as follows: A tax of ten and one-half cents on each one hundred dollars to aid in support of the public schools, to be distributed according to law among the several counties and city of Baltimore; and a tax of two cents on each one hundred dollars to defray the costs of supplying books for the use of the children in the public schools of this State; and a tax of three-fourths of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the penitentiary loan; a tax of three-sixteenths of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the insane asylum loan; a tax of fifteen-sixteenths of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for a new loan now about to be issued for the erection of a new State building, and for the improvement to sundry State institutions, to be known as the "State building and improvement loan," and a tax of three and three-eighths cents on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the State debt now outstanding, making an aggregate of seventeen cents and three-fourths of a cent on each one hundred dollars; and the county commissioners of the several counties of this State, and the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore city, are directed to levy the State taxes for the year nineteen hundred and one, to be collected according to law, and to be apportioned as follows: A tax of ten and one-half cents on each one hundred dollars to aid in support of the public schools, to be distributed according to law among the several counties and city of Baltimore; a tax of two cents on each one hundred dollars to defray the cost of supplying books for the use of the children in the public schools of this State; a tax of three-fourths of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the penitentiary loan; a tax of one-eighth of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the insane asylum loan; a tax of three-fourths of one cent on each one hundred dollars to meet the interest and create a sinking fund for the redemption of the "State building and improvement loan;" and a tax of two and seven-eighths cents on each one