

1900, ch 135.

17. In all cases where leases for a definite term, or for a term of years, renewable forever, have been or may hereafter be made to a married woman, and the rent therein stipulated to be paid shall be in arrear and unpaid, it shall be lawful for the landlord to levy said rent by distress, in the same manner as if the lessee was a feme sole; and in case of no sufficient distress being found on said premises, to make such re-entry or bring such action for recovery of the demised premises as he or she might do if the lessee were feme sole, and had covenanted for the payment of said rents, and to suffer such re-entry to be made.

1900, ch. 633.

19 A. A married woman may contract with her husband, and may form a copartnership with her husband, or with any other person or persons in the same manner as if she were a feme sole, and upon all such contracts, partnership or otherwise, a married woman may sue and be sued as fully as if she were a feme sole.
