

Commissioners for the Promotion of Uniformity of Legislation in the United States.

1896, ch. 264. 1900, ch. 194

24. The governor shall appoint a board of three commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States, whose duty it shall be to examine the subjects of marriage and divorce, insolvency, form of notarial certificates and other subjects; to ascertain the best means to effect an assimilation and uniformity in the laws of the States and especially to meet with representatives appointed by the other States of the Union in a convention to draft uniform laws to be submitted for the approval and adoption of the several States and to advise and recommend such other course of action as shall best accomplish the purposes of this section. They shall hold office for a term not exceeding four years. No compensation for services shall be allowed, but each commissioner shall be entitled to receive his actual disbursements for expenses in performing the duties of his office. The governor shall fill vacancies and reappoint from time to time as may in his judgment be necessary to carry out the purposes of this section. Said board may employ such persons and incur such expenses as may be necessary in the performance of their duties, but the total actual expenses of said board shall not exceed the amount of five hundred dollars. Upon the expiration of the term of said commissioners, the governor shall make new appointments so as to continue the existence of this commission. The sum of one thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, payable out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is appropriated to carry out the provisions of this section, and the same shall be payable by the comptroller to the said commissioners upon proper warrants therefor. Said board shall report to the legislature at each session thereof as it may deem proper an account of its advice and recommendations in relation to the subjects hereinbefore mentioned.

Commission to Revise the Incorporation Laws.

1902, ch. 446.
