

wine, ale, porter, strong beer, lager beer and all other malt liquors, and any compound or composition in which alcohol forms the chief or principal ingredient, when kept or deposited with intent to sell the same for drinking or tippling purposes, as well as other distilled spirits, shall be considered as intoxicating within the meaning of this act; but that this enumeration shall not prevent any other pure or mixed liquors from being considered intoxicating.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That if any person, corporation, company or association, by himself, herself or itself, or by his, her or its clerk, servant or agent, directly or indirectly, shall sell intoxicating liquors in violation of the provisions of this act, he, she or it, shall forfeit and pay on the first conviction a fine of not less than thirty nor more than two hundred dollars, and the costs of prosecution, or instead of such fine, if a person shall be imprisoned in the county jail for thirty days in the discretion of the court; and on the second and every subsequent conviction, the minimum and maximum of said fine for the next preceding offence shall be double, with the costs of prosecution in each case added, and the imprisonment for the second offence, if a person, shall be not less than thirty nor more than sixty days; and the minimum and maximum of imprisonment for every subsequent conviction shall be alike double of that next preceding.

Fine for violation

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That no person, corporation, company or association, shall deposit or have in his, her or its possession, any intoxicating liquors with intent to sell the same in violation of law, or with intent that the same shall be sold by any person, corporation, company or association, or to aid and assist any person, corporation, company or association in such sale; and any person, corporation, company or association violating the provisions of this section shall be subject to the like fines and punishments as are prescribed for violations of the second section of this act.

Fines and punishments

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That all prosecutions for violations of the provisions of this act may be either upon presentment and indictment, or by trial

Prosecutions—how made