Edmund ffarman master of a vessell by Edmund Gibbons his Lodging attended him a Seaman preferred a Complaint for that Edmund by Force detained from him certain Goods belonging to him his Customers. But when they could not prevail to get their Goods from him, they Complained to the Court: and Edmund was Summoned to appear before the Court to answer the Complaint of the Customers. But when he came to the Court he would not be heard to answer the Complaint of the Customers, unless he might have a Jury to try the Cause between him and the Customers.
But the Court told him that he could not have a Jury, but that he must answer to the Complaint of the Customers, and that the Court would hear the Cause between them, and do them Justice according to Equity. Then Edmund would have had the Court to have adjourned the Cause to another Court, but the Court would not adjourn the Cause, but would hear it that day.
Then Edmund would have had the Court to have heard the Cause the next day, but the Court would not hear the Cause the next day, but would hear it that day. Then Edmund would have had the Court to have heard the Cause the next day, but the Court would not hear the Cause the next day, but would hear it that day. Then Edmund would have had the Court to have heard the Cause the next day, but the Court