

that sought to disrupt their new-born country. It was that spirit that made this American republic a great Nation, a Nation with a soul, a Nation with character.

Today as a result of the toil and the vision of patriotic men and women of generations gone by, we have a stable Government founded upon the eternal principles of freedom and justice. Whether we shall continue to possess this Nation tomorrow in freedom and justice depends solely upon ourselves. For the sake of our little ones; in justice to unborn generations of Americans, we cannot, we must not fail.
