

One thing of which we can be sure,—America and the United States will never give up this fight until slavery has been beaten, until Freedom has been restored throughout the world. One hundred and thirty million Americans are united today with 800,000,000 people of the United Nations, in the patriotic determination to win through to Victory, no matter what the cost. Only thus can the menace to freedom, represented by Hitler and Japan, be destroyed; only thus can be restored throughout the world the principles of decency and humanity upon which America is founded, and without which there can be no hope for continued Peace upon the earth!
