

equipment, and second for making improvements and additions to such other public school buildings in Frederick County as shall be deemed necessary.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners for Frederick County shall cause to be levied and collected from the assessable property of Frederick County such taxes as may be sufficient to pay for the interest on the outstanding bonds issued in pursuance of this Act as the same may fall due and also such further additional sums as may be required to retire and redeem said bonds when and as the same shall mature, until all of them shall have been retired. And said taxes shall be collected in like manner as other taxes levied in Frederick County are collected, and when collected shall be applied to the payment of the interest on outstanding bonds, and for the redemption of the same as they may mature and become payable.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That said bonds shall be sold by the County Commissioners after three weeks' advertisement in such newspaper or newspapers as the said Commissioners shall determine, to the highest bidder or bidders; provided, however, that the said Commissioners shall have the right to reject any and all bids if the price is held to be inadequate.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That anything in this Act to the contrary, notwithstanding that in the event any of the projects herein designated to be carried out by the Board of Education of Frederick County in pursuance to the authority herein contained shall not be financially aided by any agency of the United States of America to such an extent that the funds derived for said project from the proceeds of this bond issue, together with the funds received from said agency, shall not be sufficient to pay the total cost of said project that then the County Commissioners of Frederick County are directed not to issue so much of said bond issue as has herein been allocated to said project.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect June 1, 1937.

Approved May 18, 1937.
