So the message was assented to, and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Fenton rising to a privileged question, called the attention of the House to the requirements of Rule V, prescribing the persons to be admitted within the Bar of the House, and moved a rigid enforcement of the Rule.

The Speaker directed the Sergeant-at-Arms, to see that the provisions of the Rule be strictly complied with.

Mr. Scott submitted the following order :

WHEREAS, It appears in the Comptroller's Report of 1874, under the head of "Special Appropriations," that the sum of $95,443.72, an excess of $30,061.68, over the amount presented in the Comptroller's Report of 1872, under the same head, has been taken from the Public Treasury, and that the expenditure of this enormous sum of money without a full and complete explanation, by what authority, to what persons and objects, and for what purposes said money was disbursed, is notoriously unsatisfactory to the tax-payers of the State, and calculated to surround the chief officials of the Treasury Department with suspicion and odium.
