

House has been holding three Sessions daily. In addition, we would state, that while we have from time to time given drafts upon the Comptroller, for amounts that would enable the Printer to prosecute the work, we have reserved more than one-fifth of the whole amount named in the contract, to be paid by the Comptroller upon the completion of the Documents yet to be printed, the Journals of both Houses, and the printing of the Laws and Resolutions. All of which is respectfully submitted.
