

county purposes now are treated; that the said taxes so levied for the ensuing year may be collected by the tax collecting authorities for said county, and every sixty days the said authorities shall remit the entire amount of the taxes so collected to the said corporation, or to its duly authorized treasurer or to its successor or successors, upon the said corporation causing the said treasurer to execute and deliver a bond to the said County Commissioners with surety by an approved surety corporation in a penal sum equal to the amount of taxes to be levied, as shown by the report of the said corporation, conditioned upon the faithful discharge of the duties of the treasurer as imposed upon him by law; that the funds received pursuant to said tax levy by the treasurer of the said corporation, its successor or successors, may be used to pay all the proper costs, expenses, claims and demands of and against the said corporation; that if the taxes levied as aforesaid in any one year be inadequate to defray all the said costs, expenses, claims and demands, the amount of the deficiency shall be added to the levy for the next ensuing year and be collected in the aforesaid year's taxes; that the area hereinbefore mentioned is more particularly described as follows; to wit: Beginning at a point on the western boundary line of the District of Columbia where the said boundary line and the center line of the public road known as the River Road intersects, and running thence southwesterly along and with the western boundary line of the District of Columbia to the Maryland-Virginia boundary line on the south side of the Potomac River; thence along and with the said Maryland-Virginia boundary line to a point on the said Maryland-Virginia boundary line directly opposite the mouth of Cabin John Creek, thence northward along the center line of said Cabin John Creek to the northern boundary of Conduit Road, thence eastward along Conduit Road to the western boundary of Wilson Lane, thence along Wilson Lane to the center line of River Road; thence southeasterly along and with the center line of said road to the place of beginning.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act is hereby declared to be an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and being passed by a yea and nay vote supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

· Approved April 21, 1933.