

of any banking institution may during the period of one year and such further period of one year, if any, be withdrawn, to such extent as in his judgment the safety of the institution and the interest of the public may require. The Board of Directors of any banking institution may, with the authority or approval of the Bank Commissioner, adopt such special by-laws, rules or regulations governing the withdrawal of deposits and other funds during said one year and extended period as in the judgment of the Bank Commissioner the safety of the institution and the interest of the public may require. Such restrictions, terms and conditions prescribed by the Bank Commissioner and such rules and regulations adopted by any banking institution may differ with respect to different banks; but except as otherwise provided for in this Act, restrictions on withdrawals and pro-rata withdrawal rights shall be uniform as to all deposits in the same banking institution.

71D. In addition to the powers conferred by Sections 71C to permit payments on a pro-rata basis, the Bank Commissioner may, from time to time, in the case of savings or time deposits, by uniform rule as to each particular institution, limit or increase the amount of any pro-rata withdrawal, by fixing maximum and minimum amounts, available for withdrawal during stated periods of time, and may also, whenever he deems it in the public interest, determine the amount or amounts of deposits, belonging to any banking institution as a part of its reserve funds, that may be withdrawn from time to time by said banking institution from the institution in which such funds are deposited, and the percentage of such withdrawals may be greater in percentage but not less than the percentage prescribed by him for the withdrawal of deposits by private individuals.

71E. Any banking institution under the custody of the Bank Commissioner, as authorized by this Act, may receive new deposits which shall be withdrawable in accordance with the terms of such new deposits, and shall be preferred in right of payment and satisfaction to all other deposits, debts or liabilities of any nature whatsoever, made or incurred prior to the assumption of management by the Bank Commissioner. The percentage of old deposits, when made available for withdrawal by the Bank Commissioner from time to time, shall have the status of new deposits within the meaning of this section. Such new deposits shall not be subject to any restrictions im-
