

1 the Supreme Court of Appeals go, or the present Court
2 of Appeals for that matter, in undertaking to see to it
3 that the full activity is carried on in the Circuit Court?
4 And what power is there to enforce administrative orders.
5 Those are matters which are fairly obscure to me at the 6 present time. I have in mind a rather unpleasant en-
7 forcement procedure, which was taken in Michigan some 8 years ago, where a circuit judge refused to accept an 9 assignment to another court, and the Supreme Court of 10 the State fined him for contempt.

11 THE CHAIRMAN: I think the matters you are 12 mentioning, Judge Brune, will be covered in a draft when 13 we get to that point.

14 JUDGE BRUNE: I want to be sure that those rather 15 practical points were not overlooked.

16 THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Invernizzi emphasized the 17 same thing to us in Atlantic City, that the present 18 language leaves a little bit to be desired as to just 19 exactly what the powers are.

20 JUDGE BRUNE: To make it all the worse, the 21 language in this draft is even skimpier, Section 7, than
