

1 appointing the President of the University of Maryland
2 and the president of all the State colleges and every-
3 thing else. It would be unthinkable.

4 DR. SENSENBAUGH: I think you would have 5 chaos. I know what happens when you have elected
6 superintendents. I can quote you examples. I don't 7 want them in the record, but it is real serious, what 8 happens to the schools and the same thing is just one 9 step removed from that, when the Governor appoints the 10 heads of the school system.

11 MR. ENEY: But there are some states that 12 have very recently gone to elected superintendents.
13 Do you have any notions as to whether that has proved 14 to be good or bad?

15 DR. SENSENBAUGH: I say it's bad. It may 16 have been an improvement over something that happened, 17 for some reason or other. I know now Oregon had the 18 first election of a superintendent in a long time, but 19 this is because of a State Supreme Court decision in 20 regard to interpretation of their original Constitution
21 saying what was being done all along was illegal. I
