

1 covering the School Board and the Superintendent of 2 Schools, and we at least tentatively rejected the sug-
3 gession on the Miscellaneous Provisions Committee on 4 the basis that things have been going so very well and,
5 as you say, have been over such a substantial period
6 and it was unnecessary and perhaps even dangerous to 7 change the course of events by changing or adding to 8 the Constitution on the subject, and I wonder what 9 your thoughts are on that?

10 DR. SENSENBAUGH: I noticed that -- this is 11 true, this was discussed and one who was entered in 12 your recommendations was the University of Maryland.
13 I wondered, though, why, being a member of the Board
14 of Trustees of the State colleges, which is going to 15 be quite a sizable group, why this was not entered, 16 although you did indicate that there were so many 17 different colleges; but these colleges did not have 18 separate boards. Maybe it would be wrong to spell out
19 in the Constitution that there would be a single board
20 continually operating the State colleges in Maryland, 21 because it might possibly be some day you may want to
