

1 MRS. FREEDLANDER: Dr. Sensenbaugh, I would
2 like to extend Mr. Eney's question and perhaps not make 3 it in the form of a question, but a statement. I have 4 been observing the schools in Maryland for about twenty 5 years and I am very much interested in public education.
6 I think what happens under the present system, because 7 you are not really beholden to the Governor, is you can 8 play both parties and you can lobby the legislature and 9 bring the people to the legislature and get your action
10 there, because when you mobilize, you mobilize towards 11 the legislature and not towards the Governor, because 12 you feel more secure; and if you were appointed by the 13 Governor, you would feel that you owe allegiance and 14 loyalty to him and that you might be subject to your 15 being asked for your resignation.

16 DR. SENSENBAUGH: That's right. This again
17 would refer to the individual who was in the Governor's 18 chair at the time.

19 MRS. FREEDLANDER: I don't think so. I think
20 it could be anybody. It could be somebody who is pro
21 education and it could be a neutral person. I think
