

1 detail that you would expect if you were examining minute-
2 ly the governmental structure of any county would not be 3 necessary. In addition to that, the only comment I would 4 have or suggestion would be that this study include also 5 an analysis of the present constitutional provisions and 6 perhaps recommendations and criticisms of the present,
7 for example, 11A and 11E.

8 After all, we are dealing with the Constitution
9 and it would seem to me that that would be helpful to us
10 as members of the Committee to know in summary form just 11 exactly what the present constitutional provisions are.

12 THE CHAIRMAN: Well, I think that should in-
13 clude Article 13, too, because there is the responsibility 14 of organization of counties and new subdivisions and the 15 two are relatively interrelated, and I do not see any 16 reason why, as we get the actual material together and 17 study of the existing governmental setup, that we cannot 18 then include the analysis of the present provisions con-
19 tained in the Constitution. The two could well run to-20 gether.

21 Well, I think then we are more or less in
