

1 MR. GOLDSTEIN: In many places, I am sure.

2 THE CHAIRMAN: I thought that was the universal
3 law that nothing would repeal.

4 MR. SAYRE: There you propose something that
5 some people said wouldn't work. You have made it work, is 6 that right?

7 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That is right.

8 MR. SAYRE: That means also that if some other
9 proposition were proposed that isn't presently in being,
10 as being workable, it could possibly work, too, isn't
11 that possible?

12 MR. GOLDSTEIN: That is true in life of most
13 things. That is why they make a different kind of car
14 every day. That is why they are now wearing Italian
15 clothes instead of American made clothes.

16 MR. SAYRE: What I am suggesting, the fact we
17 have been blessed with the competence that you have pro-
18 vided, doesn't mean that we couldn't possibly arrange
19 for even something that would work better. That is 20 possible, wouldn't you admit?

21 MR. GOLDSTEIN: I would have to admit that.
