

1 Attorney General, Treasurer, Tom Martin. I knew Tom
2 Martin. Cliff Yale was the Auditor. They don't have 3 an office called Comptroller.

4 MR. SAYRE: No, Secretary of State handles
5 those functions. You also have split responsibilities
6 when you have so many elected officials. It is hard to 7 pin responsibility for this and that, it would seem to 8 me. In other words, you say you even think the Treasurer
9 ought to be elected. To me, this confuses responsibility,
10 hurts a fiscal program, and prevents the Legislature 11 from doing, from responding to executive leadership in 12 the way that perhaps would be more beneficial to the 13 public. In other words, if you can pin your finger on 14 someone who is responsible for something, wouldn't you 15 say that that is an easier way for the public to make the 16 elective officials accountable, when it is on a broader 17 scale, than simply the responsibilities you presently
18 hold, collector, revenue estimator, et cetera?

19 MR. GOLDSTEIN: I am a great believer in let-20 ting the people have a strong voice in government by 21 electing people. To me, it represents a stronger, better
