

1 active when it came to legislative consideration of 2 appropriations for education.

3 I would like to comment that it is not the 4 lobbyists that are against appropriations for any particu-
5 lar purpose. It is the people, and the people just don't 6 like to pay taxes and I think that this feeling is well
7 reflected in the Nebraska unicameral.

8 Another point that was brought up by Mr.
9 Scanlan, I believe, concerned the degree of cooperation 10 between the governor and the legislature, which was 11 occasioned by a comment in Mr. Michener's paper on Page 12 16, "This same concentration of leadership simplifies the 13 working relationship between the governor and the legis-
14 lature."

15 This statement is correct, I believe. I
16 believe the existence of only one house does simplify
17 the relationship between the governor and the legislature.
18 The relationship, however, between the governor and a 19 particular legislature does not depend upon the form of 20 the government. It depends primarily on the personnel
21 involved. I think the relationship between the governor
