

1 and the legislature in Nebraska at the present time is more
2 than adequate for the purposes of coming to grips with 3 public questions. If you like, we can explore this later, 4 if you have some questions about it.

5 There are questions involving the problem of 6 a governor elected on a partisan ticket and the legislature
7 elected on a nonpartisan ticket. So, if you are interested 8 in those, we can go into that later on.

9 Another point which was mentioned in the paper,
10 on Page 13, I believe, was the fact that unicameralism
11 results in higher standards for the introduction of bills.

12 It should be pointed out that the number of 13 bills which a legislature must consider, I think, is a 14 function of several things. One would be the length of 15 the session. It is possible that it would be a function 16 of the number of legislators. Nebraska's experience in 17 this field, however, is, I think, largely the result of 18 a relatively severe limitation on the introduction of 19 bills after a certain number of legislative days. In 20 other words, after a certain point has been reached in 21 the legislative session, an individual member may no
