

1 may get uniform action, but the clique has already gotten
2 in its activities at another stage. Certainly, the Demo-
3 cratic party in Maryland has had its factions which have 4 been able to control committee action where the chairman
5 of a committee represents the interests of a particular 6 area of the state.

7 So that you have geographical units here which 8 have defied the action of the majority.

9 MR. SCANLAN: Well, I think that's true in 10 intermittent matters, but I think Dr. Bard is right. In 11 Maryland, the Governor and his leadership over a period of 12 eight years, whether one agreed or disagreed with him,
13 generally stood in the minds of the people as the people
14 responsible for getting through a legislative program,
15 and I am sure there have been rebellions both on the part 16 of legislators in the General Assembly, or on the part of 17 Democrats in other parts of the State, but there was no
18 question there was one group we could look to for exer-
19 cising, as you put it, continued responsibility over the 20 term.

21 Now, how does Governor Morrison handle that out
