

1 in it and would like some of the states to experiment with 2 it, if we wanted to have an impact upon legislature
3 structure, we ought to talk about what most state legis-
4 latures have, the bicameral pattern, and that is why it
5 finds its way into the footnote and does not reflect the 6 change in the A.M.L. philosophy on this.

7 The second thing is if this Commission should 8 adopt the unicameral legislature as a proposal or should 9 adopt the bicameral legislature as a proposal, I think if 10 it is going to make recommendations on the bicameral system, 11 it should definitely make some strong recommendations as 12 to the structure of that legislature.

13 In the model, we came out with a provision that 14 we couldn't see any point in the upper house being more 15 than about one-third the size of the lower house and we 16 felt that if you were going to set up legislative districts,
17 that the house districts couldn't in effect be put together
18 then to conform with the senatorial districts, and there
19 was no particular reason for tying these into twisting 20 units of government which would or would not make any 21 sense, as far as apportionment is concerned.
